Computational modeling (e.g., systems dynamics modeling)

Statistical modeling (e.g., latent growth curve, latent change score modeling)

Description of dynamic interaction between process components over time

Operationalization of the theory that is used to evaluate correspondence between the theory and empirical data Observations made of the process over time